Longing

By Saga

Published on Lush Stories on 09 Dec 2012

05.2013

http://www.lushstories.com/stories/love-poems/longing-1.aspx

From the corner of my eye,
I catch your silhouette,
Your stunning beauty,
As you walk on by.

The sight of you makes me smile;
My heart flutters like butterflies.
I am drawn to your hips
As they sway with every slow move.

My thoughts go to your tender skin,
So pale and impossibly soft.
As I trace my fingertips along your neck,
I feel the bolt of electricity erupting.

Imagining you closing your eyes,
As you feel my touch,
All I can think of is your scent,
And how it triggers my senses.

How intoxicating you will taste,
When I feel your plush lips against mine,
My confident hands running up your legs,
Spreading them wide as I go.

How I will pull your jeans down,
Ever so slowly, over your luscious hips,
Seeing your perfect body shiver,
Causing it to fuel my growing desire.

How I will kneel before you,
My eyes locked with yours,
Smoldering and burning,
As I lick the inside of your thighs

Breaking the silence with your gasp,
As my teeth sink into your flesh;
I will inhale your vivid essence,
Making every part of me shudder.

My longing for you is building
As I bite my quivering lip.
The frantic need to please you,
Is driving me crazy with lust.

I want to make you crave my touch,
To see you squirming with desire
As you feel my tongue teasing
As I claim your body.

To feel the moment you let it all go,
To finally surrender to your desire,
I want to hear you scream my name
As you cum against my urgent tongue.