

Alicia

By DeepDarkDisire

Published on Lush Stories on 10 Oct 2012

The things my heart sings.

<https://www.lushstories.com/stories/love-poems/alicia.aspx>

I miss you, my love, but there is so much more in that, I miss you not your hair your teeth your breasts your feet In truth none of those things do it for me. It is your soul Your most inner person I love you no matter the casing When I think about being with you for the rest of my life a tear of joy comes to my eye There is no greater love than the one I hold for you. No matter how far away you are if you're not by my side my heart is broken Others can not hold my interest the way you do I want to show you my love Any And Every way I can. There is no comparison to our love. They will have to write new songs and books to reference it but even then they won't come close I love you will have to do for now.