

Birthday Bath

By Navin

Published on Lush Stories on 03 Apr 2011

A wonderful way to end a birthday celebration.

<https://www.lushstories.com/stories/love-poems/birthday-bath.aspx>

The tub faucet drips slowly and steadily as steam fills the room. The room's only light is one candle for every year of your birth. Your back lies comfortably against my chest. Our breathing is relaxed and deep. Your eyes are closed as I watch a bead of perspiration trickle off your shoulder and down your back. I kiss the bead and begin nuzzling your shoulder. Your eyes open gently and you turn your head. We smile at each other and kiss tenderly. Suddenly you turn. We are face to face. Chest to chest. You reach between us and find my hard member. I gasp and begin to moan. You rub me against your pussy. You are so soft and velvety. My cock slides into you and we slowly move to deeper penetration. Our mouths meet and our tongues tangle. Grinding deep inside you. Caressing your lower back. Pulling you deeper and deeper. Looking into your eyes and not believing my good fortune in being with a sexy woman like you. The water begins to splash against the sides of the tub dousing some of the flickering candles. We are in near darkness. There is only the sounds of our rapid breathing and of the water hitting the floor. And then, you gasp as my cock hits your special spot again and again. One final deep thrust. Grinding deep. Your arms wrapped around me so tight. Your fingernails raking my back. We cum together. Waves of water and orgasm crashing. You lay your head on my shoulder. Both of us smiling and content. Happy birthday, baby.