When I think about you, I can feel my beating heart sway. These intense desires, birth jovial thoughts everyday. When you're in my arms, everything around us feels so right. Deeply lost within your eyes, wishing this moment could be every night. The Moon and Stars wane, in the beauty and grace of your smile. Clinched around my arm, you have wholly become my style. The intoxicating kiss, delivered from your luscious lips. While my mind's lost in bliss, fingers dancing across your hips. These moments I've spent, with you and without fears. Confidentially, I do pray, this Happiness could last for years.
