Everyday I dream you're in my arms and dream you sample all my charms Then I wake and you're not there and I realize that life's not fair I want you, I need you that's all I know to sample your wonderful afterglow To know there are problems you'll have to choose But Dallas darling you really can't lose you do what you have to do even if are moments are far and few one thing is you know I care and when you want me I'll still be there
