

He left her today

By meredith

Published on Lush Stories on 12 Sep 2013

Copyright(c) 9/1/13 by James W

All rights reserved, except for those permitted under the U.S. Copyright Act of 1976, no part of James W's publication may be reproduced , distributed, or transmitted in any form or by any means, or stored in a database or retrieval syatem, without prior written consent of

Woman deals with the loss of her husband

<https://www.lushstories.com/stories/love-poems/he-left-her-today.aspx>

He left her today She sits back in the car The ride back to their home Really isn't very far. He left her today Helped out by her son Said they couldn't help him That nothing could be done. He left her today The doctors tried their best The cancer gone too far It was best let him rest. He left her today House full of people sounds Not a word did she hear Loneliness knew no bounds. He left her today She sees that day they wed She sees his face, her groom And the first night they bed. He left her today Sitting there, at wits end She lost her only love And lost her best friend He left her today She's alone with her fears She wants to cry some more But she ran out of tears. He left her today The tables full of food But there is nothing today That will brighten her mood. He left her today Thinks ahead of her task Sorting through all those boxes Things they kept, meant to last. He left her today Someone wants Grandma to play A little child's face greets her He knows not of this day. He left her today Their house they made a home They are leaving her now She's completely alone. He left her today Thirty nine years a pair She goes to bed to rest Empty he's besides her there. He left her today.