

Letting Go (Holding On)

By DanceWithShadows

Published on Lush Stories on 18 Sep 2012

The hardest part of love is letting go

<https://www.lushstories.com/stories/love-poems/letting-go-holding-on.aspx>

I started to let go of you For I knew I couldn't hold on. You kept on walking away from me, Your stride was just too strong. I said goodbye to the times we shared And the memories we made. I watched you grow more distant... I watched our friendship fade. I wiped away my tears for you. I knew they would hurt you to see. I tried to keep a brave face on So that you wouldn't feel guilty. The fire that once burned in my heart Smouldered to just a flame. Now I keep the hope alive; That you would return to me again. I started letting go of you, But find myself holding on.. You'll have to push me far away If you truly want me gone.