

Lust

By hottails

Published on Lush Stories on 08 Apr 2009

Giving in to an overwhelming case of sexual attraction

<https://www.lushstories.com/stories/love-poems/lust.aspx>

I'm passing by your office I see you're working late I call to say hi from the street below you ask me if I'll wait in a moment you are at the door you smile and say hello a fleeting thought hints I should leave but your eyes won't let me go I'm looking at forbidden fruit drawn in by what I see attracted to every inch of you you unlock the door and reach for me you slip your arms around my waist I'm surprised how hard they feel you pull my body into yours this sensation is surreal your steady gaze entices me your hungry mouth finds mine you press yourself against me hard your urgency's sublime this closeness makes me dizzy I'm weak I start to fall you catch me fast and hold me up you put my back against the wall I can feel your bold excitement my body tingles as you move I drop to my knees and discover you are hard and tight and smooth ardently I devour you

I savor silk skin

you start to clench and I pull back I move to your lips again you lift me up and lay me down all barriers hit the floor with one smooth slow move you fill me I cannot handle more we slowly start moving together soon we are desperately intense passion raw and intoxicating our desire is immense we grind into each other as we push it to the end the world explodes, and we float down too much to comprehend