

Midnight Love

By Babygurrl91

Published on Lush Stories on 05 May 2011

First time I met my true Love

<https://www.lushstories.com/stories/love-poems/midnight-love.aspx>

Midnight love, where stars surround you, where smiles are friendly Upstate New York, where I met you, you met me, You found someone happy as can be. Midnight love, where stars surround you, It felt like magic when I am with you I was in a patrol car, you were outside, You came towards me, opened the door, we talked, You gave me a index card, with a number, your number Midnight Love, where stars surround you, You surrounded me with happiness, When I first met you. My dad came to you the next day, asked about you, told you to keep trying, I'll come around, I did, You were happy when that happen, He gave you my number, you started texting me. Midnight love, I was in love, you have fought for me since day one and still do, I can't live without you, I love you more than anything We started hooking up, I was glad that we did, you were always at my house, spending the night, we never been apart, you gave me the love that I never had Midnight love, when the lights flicker in the streets, all I seen was the smile on your face Midnight love, became more than midnight love, it became a marriage, that I will fight for everyday, I know you will do the same. I love you.