

Playing with fire

By vanessa26

All my shit, is written entirely by me, but edited by the lovely and completely fucking talented Stillundecided, Please do not copy without permission, permission which wont ever happen.. but ask anyways

<https://www.lushstories.com/stories/love-poems/playing-with-fire.aspx>

She is playing with fire never caring never fearing that any moment she might get burnt She is enjoying every moment feeling feelings she has never felt it feels so good it feels so right I do not want it to end I want this dance to last all night You and I have never felt so right it feels so good it feels so right you take me to a far off place through space and time the stars never looked so bright playing with fire never felt this good be my light be my sun be my moon at night you make me feel alright I could dance all night.