

Tell me

By Princess4Jim

Published on Lush Stories on 22 Jan 2012

<https://www.lushstories.com/stories/love-poems/tell-me-3.aspx>

I said I love you. You said you love me Just as friends you said My heart died a little I told you I wanted you. You told me you wanted me Than you said it couldn't be anymore My hope died a little. I told you I needed you in my life. You told me you needed me in your life Than you told me, that it was never going to happen My faith in men died a little more. I cried for you. I cried with you I longed for you Part of me was willing to die for you Than one night In an angry rage. I told you I wasn't going to ask to be your again. If you wanted me. Ask me If you needed me Tell me. If you loved me The way that I love you Than I needed to know You felt it too Than the same night That is just what you did You confessed your feelings for me As I did for you. That night we went from being A you and a me And we finally became A we. Even though it has not been easy And we have had some hard time It was all worth it To finally be able to be yours forever.