If he closes his eyes, it doesn't exist....

If he closes his eyes, it doesn't exist
Just feels with his heart and doesn't resist
In a second his mouth is closed with a kiss
Deep down inside he is longing for this
He feels his skin burning, the heat that is lust
A fire within him grows with every thrust
Their bodies are tangled, a chaotic mess
The passion is stronger with every caress
He's loaned himself out, to be played like a toy
Bought by men, just a simple rent boy
To their hunger he is the cure
Claiming his body that was once pure
He thinks that maybe, he'll find a love true
Maybe, one day, he'll get what is due
