Love brightens my life.

I used to think Darkness was my friend. Because it would Hide the scars. The scars On my heart, The scars On my soul. The darkness was my friend. But I could not see All the damage I was doing to me. All the anger, All the pain. Nothing but clouds, Nothing but rain. It would cut even deeper, Cause even more pain. So I built a wall Strong and tall. To keep everything out, And protect from all. But one day The sun came out And broke through the wall. My eyes are clear, I stand tall. The day you said, "I love you," That day The darkness died.
