

The Lesson

By Michael101662

Published on Lush Stories on 10 Apr 2008

<https://www.lushstories.com/stories/love-poems/the-lesson.aspx>

The Lesson She comes out of the dark Her smile warm and bright on a journey we do embark as She leads me into the light Her smile is warm and kind Her eyes twinkle with a spark as She takes hold of my mind and warmly melts my heart we walk along the shore She whispers in my ear offering me so much more than She pulls me near "There is nothing to fear I have so much to teach you so follow me, my dear first times are always new" She leads me to a place and She opens the door windows adorned with lace the same color She wore She takes me to a room candles placed all around there was no sense of doom only happiness was found She places me on a bed my limbs are gently bound my gentle laces of red i do not make a sound She says i am safe and She will do no harm in Her, i have faith and feel no alarm "There are some things that You should learn when your heart sings My love you shall earn" She blows out each candle and leaves me in the dark "I hope You can handle being alone when i depart" "I shall not be far away but this is your first test all I have to say is it's for the best" as i lie bound and alone i face my deepest fears a chill fills my bones and i burst out in tears off to my right i hear a stirring She emerges into sight then my heart does sing "I am here little one I have not abandoned you. your test is done and I love you, too."