

To My Wife

By DirtyMartini

Published on Lush Stories on 19 Jan 2010

All stories, poems and plays copyright Alan W. Jankowski.

A love poem...third post from the point of view of my older friend Gary (aka 67Goat)

<https://www.lushstories.com/stories/love-poems/to-my-wife.aspx>

To My Wife: Looking back at the time we shared, Nothing else in my life has compared, Ever since that day we walked down the aisle, We have walked together for many a mile, Joined together hand in hand, Part of some much larger plan, You have brought to my world such sheer delight, Making my time on earth so sunny and bright, I am so thankful for the time we spend, Time together I hope will never end, From the first time I saw your face, I knew you were my saving grace, Like a drowning man who's been thrown a rope, You've provided me such unending hope, Casting my loneliness to the side, Never once breaking your stride, Like a gift from Heaven above, I'm so thankful for your love, A true love that will never fade, I'm thankful for the love we made, All the times we held each other tight, Making love with all our might, A special dance between the covers, That could only be done by true lovers, Thankful I have you to hug and hold, Thankful for the passion you let unfold, I pray this time with you will never end, For it is time spent with my best friend, So thankful for the joy you bring, Symbolized by a wedding ring, I know the best is yet to come, Though we are two, we think as one, For no matter what the future may bring, I am proud it is you who wears my ring. 01-19-10.