

You were more than just a...

By Catnip

Published on Lush Stories on 19 May 2009

Catnip tries to be classic.

<https://www.lushstories.com/stories/love-poems/you-were-more-than-just-a.aspx>

I tend to sit and dream a lot with my eyes caught in the blue I usually loose myself in thoughts concerning you How you gently pushed inside to the mattress sounds we rocked for a short moment in my life the time seemed to have stopped We fell asleep and when I woke your body pressed close to mine I wish I could have stayed like that but we were running out of time A day without any words to say a long hug as it was time to part No confidence to sit close to you should have kept away from the start When I turned and looked at you saw you disappear from the block No matter what the others say You were more than just a cock